

Using APA Style for Print Sources

This handout covers citing a wide range of print sources using APA style.

Scholarly Journal Article with Continuous Pagination

These journals begin each issue where the last one left off. Many articles have page numbers that are quite high.

Author(s). (date). Article title. Journal Title, volume, pages.

- Kwoc, R. (2009). Personal technology: Phoning in data. Nature, 458, 959-961.
- Ludovic, S., & Pontier, D. (2004). Spacing pattern in a social group of stray cats: Effects on male reproductive success. Animal Behaviour, 65, 175-180.
- Nicolaidis, C. (2006). My mother's choice. JAMA, 296, 907-908.
- Rajpoot, N.A., Sharma, A., & Chebat, J.C. (2008). The role of gender and work status in shopping center patronage. Journal of Business Research, 61, 825-833.

Scholarly Journal That Begins Each Issue with Page One

These articles typically have low page numbers.

Author(s). (date). Article title. Journal Title, volume(issue), pages.

- Jennings, B. (2006). The ordeal of reminding. Hastings Center Report, 36(2), 29-37.
- Lobell, R. (2008). Cooking with clay for slow food and a healthy world. Ceramics Monthly, 56(10), 30-34.
- Melby, T. (2009). Reviving sex after cancer strikes. Contemporary Sexuality, 43(4), 1-6.
- Webb, O.J., & Eves, F.F. (2007). Promoting stair climbing: Intervention effects generalize to a subsequent stair ascent. American Journal of Health Promotion, 22(2), 114-119.

Magazine Article

Author. (date including month and day). Article title. Magazine Title, volume, pages.

- Douthat, R. (2005, November). Does meritocracy work? Atlantic Monthly, 296, 120-126.
- Price, S. L. (2005, December 26). The liars club. Sports Illustrated, 103, 110-116.
- Relationship issues. (2009, May 18). Time, 173, 36-37.
- Rocca, F.X. (2008, March 11). Pope tweaks prayer to address Jewish concerns. Christian Century, 125, 18-19.
- Stokstadt, E. (2004, November 2). Musk and mussels a bad mix. Science Now, 17, 2-3.

Newspaper Article

Author. (date including month and day). Article title. Newspaper Title, pp. page(s).

- Cody, E. (2009, May 8). Months-long strikes close French colleges, but motive is unclear. Washington Post, p.A10.
- Dart, B. (2008, August 15). UGA to tackle bee mystery; Feds pony up $4.1 million for investigation of deaths. Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p.1G.
- Kasper, R. (2006, November 29). Holiday beers yum! Baltimore Sun, p.2F+.
- Lee, J. (2008, January 16). Solving a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside a cookie. New York Times, p.F1.
- Scientists trace a 1553 ship wreck; Spanish treasure galleon sank in Gulf off Texas. (1970, August 2). New York Times, p.59.

An Entire Book

Author(s). (publication date). Book title (edition). Place: Publisher.

- Arem, C. (2003). Conquering math anxiety: A self-help workbook. Pacific Grove, CA: Brooks Cole/Thompson Learning.
- Eisenberg, R. (1995). Boychiks in the hood: Travels in the Hasidic underground. San Francisco: Harper Collins.
- Graham, K., & Silverman, E. (1995). Grains, rice, and beans. New York: Artisan.
- Marsh, D. (1985). Trapped: Michael Jackson and the crossover dream. New York: Bantam Books.
- Vest, J., Crowson, W., & Pochran, S. (2005). Exploring web design. Clifton Park, NY: Thomson/Delmar Learning.

A Chapter/Essay that is Part of a Book

Chapter Author. (date). Chapter title. In Editor's Name (Ed(s).), Book title (pp. chapter pages). Place of Publication: Publisher.

- Bonnin, G. (2005). The soft-hearted Sioux. In Regier, W.G. (Ed.), Masterpieces of American Indian literature (pp. 251-257). Lincoln, NB: University of Nebraska Press.
- Gravestock, P. (2000). Did imaginary animals exist? In Hassig, D. (Ed.), The mark of the beast (pp. 119-135). New York: Routledge.
- Juergensmeyer, M. (2009). Islam's "neglected duty." In Victoroff, J. & Kuglanski, A. W. (Eds.), Psychology of terrorism: Classic and contemporary insights. New York: Psychology Press.
- McAdams, D.P. (2000). Extraversion and introversion. In Kazdin, A.E. (Ed.), Encyclopedia of psychology (Vol. 3). New York: Oxford University Press.