Chicago Style for Electronic Sources - Bibliography.
(All bibliographical entries should be single spaced. Double space between entries.)

I. Citing Periodic Articles Accessed Through GALILEO.

- Give the name of the author (last name first, followed by first name and/or initial) followed by a period. [If no author, start with the title of the article.]
- Give the title of the article surrounded by quotation marks, capitalizing the first, last and all major words. Place a period at the end of the title before the enclosing quotation marks.
- Give the name of the periodical – italicized – followed by the volume number. Then, in parentheses, list the month or season, and date.
- After the close of the parentheses, use a colon before listing the page number(s) if given. (Sometimes you will need to extrapolate from data. For example, p6, 4p. = the article starts on page 6 and goes for four pages = 6-10.) Follow the page number(s) with a period.
- After typing “Available:” give the database: or the name of the site, italicized. Then type ADDRESS: followed by GALILEO. If no real pages are listed, use the electronic pages: 1 of 4. If there is only one page, count the lines and list those: lines 1-19. Put these in brackets before the date. Then type the date you retrieved the article (Month, day, year) in parentheses. End it all with a period.

Examples:

Thompson, Terry W. “Miller’s Death of a Salesman.” Explicator 60 (Summer 02):162-163. Available: Academic Search Premier at EBSCOhost; ADDRESS: GALILEO (June 4, 2002).

II. Citing Articles or Essays Accessed Through the World Wide Web.

- Give the name of the author (last name first, followed by first name and initial). [If no author, begin with title of the article in quotation marks.]
- Give the title of the article with quotation marks. Use proper capitalization.
- After typing “Available:” give the database: or the name of the site, italicized. Then type ADDRESS: followed by the URL set off by < >. The URL is usually to be found in the upper right corner of the print out. It can easily be copied directly from the Internet. It appears in the address line. If no real pages are listed, use the electronic pages: 1 of 2. If there is only one page, count the lines and list those: lines 1-19. Put these in brackets. Then type the date you retrieved the article (Month, day, year) in parentheses.
