Chicago Style for Electronic Sources - Footnotes.
(All footnotes belong at the bottom of the page, formatted as a paragraph and single spaced. The must be in numerical order. One note for each reference.)

I. Footnoting Periodic Articles Accessed Through GALILEO.

- Give the name of the author (first name first, followed by initial(s) and last name) followed by a period. [If no author, begin with the title of the article.]
- Give the title of the article surrounded by quotation marks. Capitalize the first, last and all major words. Place a period before the end of the enclosing quotation marks.
- Give the name of the – italicized – followed by the volume number. Then, in parentheses, list the month or season and the date.
- After the close of the parentheses, use a colon before listing the page number(s). (Sometimes you will need to extrapolate from data. For example, p6, 4p. = the article starts on page 6 and goes for four pages = 6-10.) Follow the pages number(s) with a period.
- After typing “Available:” give the database: or the name of the site italicized. Then type ADDRESS: followed by GALILEO. Follow this with the date retrieved (Month, day year) in parentheses.
- Next type in the required page number if there is one. For electronic sources use real page numbers if there are real page numbers. Otherwise use the page numbers listed on the top of the page, that is 1 of 2, etc. If there is only one page, count the lines and list the line or lines: Line 1 – Lines 1-5.

II. Footnoting Articles or Essays Accessed Through the World Wide Web.

- Give the name of the author (first name first, followed by initial(s) and last name) followed by a period. [If no author, begin with the title of the article.]
- Give the title of the article surrounded by quotation marks. Capitalize the first, last and all major words. Place a period before the end of the enclosing quotation marks.
- After typing “Available:” give the database: or the name of the site italicized. Then type ADDRESS: followed by the URL set off by < >. The URL is usually to be found in the upper right corner of the print out. It can easily be copied directly from the Internet. It appears in the address line. Then, type the date you retrieved the article (Month, day, year) in parentheses.
- Next type in the required page number if there is one. For electronic sources use real page numbers if there are real page numbers. Otherwise use the page numbers listed on the top of the page, that is 1 of 2, etc. If there is only one page, count the lines and list the line or lines: Line 1 – Lines 1-5.
