I. CITING PERIODICAL ARTICLES ACCESSED THROUGH DATABASES AVAILABLE AT THE DUNWOODY LRC

1. Give the citation information for the original printed source:
   - Author’s name, if given (last name, first name)
   - Title of the article in quotations
   - Publication information for the printed source (name of publication underlined, date, and pages)

2. Give information about the electronic source:
   - Name of the computer database (e.g. Academic Search Premier)
   - Name of the online service through which you accessed the database (e.g. GALILEO, GaleNet, JSTOR, etc.)

3. Give the date you accessed this information.

4. Give the web address of the main page of the online subscription service in brackets.

See sample citations below:

Magazine article found in Academic Search Premier (from EBSCOhost):

Scholarly journal article found in Research Library (from ProQuest):

Scholarly journal article found in JSTOR:

Revised 9/03 pb
II. CITING ARTICLES AND SITES ACCESSED THROUGH THE INTERNET

Cite the full-text Internet reference in the following order:
- Author’s name, if given (last name, first name)
- Title of the article in quotations, or title of the book underlined
- Publication information (varies depending on the type of material)
- The name of the scholarly project or site underlined (or use the designation homepage)
- Date of electronic publication or latest update
- Name of the institution or organization sponsoring the site
- Date of access
- Web address enclosed in brackets

See sample citations below (see MLA Handbook for more examples):

Professional or personal site

Online book within a scholarly project