Information Resources

GALILEO Over 200 electronic databases provide access to articles in scholarly journals, magazines, newspapers as well as many other resources. These databases are available to all students, faculty, and staff using the GALILEO password and GPC (icolege) username and password.

E-books Over 50,000 electronic books can be accessed through any computer with internet access. Use the GIL library catalog to locate e-books by subject or title, or go to Netlibrary or ebrary in GALILEO to look within the text of e-books for the information you need.

Books, videos, etc. Belonging to GPC can be delivered to any GPC campus library. Circulating books may be sent to any library in the University System of Georgia by placing a GIL Express request in the GIL Universal catalog.

Course reserves Books and other media may be put on reserve by instructors or departments as long as they meet Fair Use Guidelines. Materials can be available at any GPC campus library or they can be made available through electronic reserves.

Instruction

Learn from the website Videos, websites, and printable documents about how to use the library are available from the GPC Library homepage. Research Guides can help you locate resources for your class or subject. There is even a research guide specifically for GPC Online students at http://guides.gpc.edu/distancelearning.

Learn from a librarian GPC Online instructors can request the help of librarians to determine which resources are the best sources of information for particular class assignments. Instructors can also have a librarian assigned to their class to help students with their research.

For assistance with these services, call (678) 240-6139 or email the GPC Online Library Director at mary.cullen@gpc.edu.
